AIA CC Joins Others to Protect Court Construction Program
The AIA CC is actively participating in a coalition of design, construction, and labor groups to protect funding for California’s $5 billion court construction program.

The Governor and Legislature last year took over $300 million from the court construction fund, at the last moment and with little public notice or time for debate, and diverted that money to the state’s General Fund. [Continue reading]

AIA CC Sponsored Legislation Introduced
The AIA CC regularly develops proposed changes to state law for legislators to consider introducing as legislation. We focus on developing legislative language that would benefit the architectural profession, the state, and our communities. [Continue reading]

Nearly 2,000 New Bills Introduced by the Legislature this Year
Reviewing the nearly 2,000 new bills introduced by California’s Legislature is like going through a huge pile of mail: is it a nice birthday card with a check, junk mail to be ignored, or, worse, a bill that can’t be ignored? The new bill introduction deadline of Friday, February 24 has come and gone, and the pile is huge: nearly 2,000 new bills have been introduced to address, arguably, more problems than there actually are. [Continue reading]

Economic Recovery in California Is Hamppered by Declines in Public Spending
"The economy is fundamentally sound in California but recovery will continue to be slow," Cliff Brewis, Senior Director of Editorial Operations at McGraw-Hill Construction, told the AIA CC Board of Directors at their recent meeting. [Continue reading]

Drylands Design Conference
March 22-24, 2012
Burbank

Presented by the Arid Lands Institute at Woodbury University in partnership with the California Architectural Foundation and UCLA’s Institute of the Environment and Sustainability
Register now only 100 seats still available!

Holcim Award for Anderson Architecture
For their design of an energy-neutral portable classroom for the State of Hawaii, Anderson Architecture of San Francisco recently won the Holcim North America Acknowledgement Prize in a competition conducted by the Swiss-based Holcim Foundation for Sustainable Construction. [Continue reading]

Online Continuing Education Project Leads