April 11, 2012

2012 AIACC Design Awards

Every year since 1982, the AIA California Council has celebrated outstanding architecture through the AIACC Design Awards Program. The Design Awards program recognizes achievements in architecture, interior architecture, urban design, small projects as well as the 25-Year Award and Maybeck Award. The awards are juried by a distinguished group of architects and members of the architectural profession.

Also included in the program, are the 2012 Urban Design Awards along with the Achievement and Council Awards. For more information and to participate click here.

CIDP is No Longer a Requirement for Licensure in California

Effective March 29, 2012, the Comprehensive Intern Development Program (CIDP) is no longer a requirement for licensure in California. Read more

Joshua Prince-Ramus on Slow Architecture

"We’re at a moment in architecture when we need to start slowing down and let ideas gestate more." Read more about Joshua Prince-Ramus’s philosophy.

Noteworthy: Legislative Update

This article is the first in a regular series about some of the latest developments heard in legislative circles “around town.” Read more

CAF Nathaniel A. Owings Award-Call for Entries

The California Architectural Foundation (CAF) is proud to open registration for the 2012 Nathaniel A. Owings Award. Read more

Most Viewed Content on AIACC.org

Project Leads
Learning to Manage Your Risk
The Office of the State Architect: An Update
2012 Design Awards
Californians Are Advocating for Change in AIA
Recognizing the Very Best in School Design
Statute of Limitations

Home | About us | Contact | Forward to a friend

© SafeUnsubscribe™
This email was sent to markt@aia-cnc.org by markt@aia-cnc.org. Update Profile/Change Address | Instant removal with SafeUnsubscribe™ | Privacy Policy.

The AIA California Council | 1501 I Street | Suite 200 | Sacramento | CA | 95814