July 5, 2012

Progression: the state of (re)imagining our future

The architectural arena has changed as a profession over the last decade, becoming more nimble and technologically savvy, but what will the profession of architecture look like in the next 10 years? What will this future emerging architect look like? What will be the necessary skill set and role played in the built environment?

Join us for the inaugural Progression Conference, Saturday – September 22, 2012 sponsored by the American Institute of Architects, California Council’s Academy of Emerging Professionals, as we (re)imagine our future. Read more

Nathaniel A. Owings Award Winner Announced

The California Academy of Sciences was recently recognized by The California Architectural Foundation (CAF) as the winner of the the 2012 Nathaniel A. Owings Award for environmental excellence. Read more

Noteworthy

This article is part of a regular series about some of the latest developments heard in legislative circles “around town”. The Governor and the Legislature in essence believe there are better uses... Read More
AIACC Participates in CPUC Energy Efficiency Curriculum Planning

California Public Utilities Commission (CPUC) has set an ambitious goal of zero net energy for all new residential construction projects in California by 2020 and for all new commercial projects by 2030. Read more

New Accessibility Series

As part of our ongoing partnership with aecKnowledge, The AIACC is pleased to announce the New Accessibility Series. Beginning in August four new accessibility courses will be released. Read more

Most Viewed Content on AIACC.org

Project Leads
How Design Makes Us All Californian
AIA Broadcaster: Hear the Timeless Voice of Architecture
Protect Your Design: Architectural Copyright

2012 AIACC AEP Awards

Did You Know - The AIACC's 2011 audited financial statements are available to all members upon written request.

Home | About us | Contact | Forward to a Friend

Forward Newsletter

SafeUnsubscribe™
This email was sent to mclark@aiacc.org by mclark@aiacc.org | Update Profile/Email Address | Instant removal with SafeUnsubscribe™ | Privacy Policy.

The AIA California Council | 1303 J Street | Suite 200 | Sacramento | CA | 95814