November 16, 2012

AIACC 2012 Design Awards Celebration

Celebrating the innovations of California Architects and to highlight exceptional design in our communities, the AIACC recognized the 2012 Design Award recipients at SCI-Arc on Thursday – Nov. 8, 2012. The goal of this presentation was not only to honor quality design and recognize people for their outstanding contributions and service to the profession, but to engage in a meaningful dialogue about our role in shaping communities. Read more

Weigh-in on the alignment of the California Building Code and the ADA

Last July the AIACC asked its members to weigh-in on the alignment of the California Building Code and the ADA. As a result of... Read more

Gregory Blackburn, FAIA, Elected to Fellowship

Gregory Blackburn, FAIA, a member of AIA San Francisco, was elected to Fellowship in the AIA this year. He was recognized for leadership in the evolution of engineering and life science research. Read more

AIACC 2013-2014 Election Results

Elections for 2013-2014 officers and for the 2013-2015 AIA Regional Director were held in Los Angeles and the winners have been announced. Read more

Achievement Awards

The AIACC Achievement Awards recognize special accomplishments and contributions to the profession of architecture. An esteemed jury comprised of Tim Duffy, AIA, John B. Lutzen, AIA, ... Read more

Presidential Honors

Michael Enomoto, AIA, President of the AIA California Council recently recognized 12 AIA members and staff for their exceptional contributions to the profession and/or to the AIA California Council. Read more

Craig Hodgetts’s Book List

I love to writers, especially those who deal with the form of writing itself, to open doors to the infinite number of ways to structure and assess the world. Read more

Most Viewed Content on AIACC.org

Residential Awards
Social Etiquette: Invited or Imposed?
Professional Resources
Project Leads

CONCRETE MASONRY IS FLEXIBLE & ATTRACTIVE SAFE GREEN AFFORDABLE WHYMASONRY.ORG