November 28, 2012

Video: Celebrating California Architect Steven Ehrlich, FAIA

In 2011, Steven Ehrlich, FAIA, was the recipient of the prestigious AIACC Maybeck Award, which honors individual Californian architects for their outstanding bodies of work over ten years or more. Click here for the video about his work.

Proportional Perfection

In the Financial Times, Edwin Heathcote, author of The Meaning of Home, explores the relationship between Japan’s Katsura Imperial Villa and Rudolf Schindler’s Kings Road House in Los Angeles. Read more

Help Determine the Future of Public Project Financing

The California Debt and Investment Advisory Committee (CDEAC) provides training in public financing. They are currently conducting a survey of Property Owners. Read more

Fulfill Your Accessibility Requirement for Licensure with AIACC Online CE

2013 is a renewal year for your architectural license. Get a jump on fulfilling your mandated CE accessibility requirements for license renewal, with the AIACC’s online continuing education. Read more

Video: An American Masterpiece-The First Church of Church of Christ

First Church of Christ, Scientist in Berkeley, California, is a treasure of Arts &amp; Crafts architecture, designed by the architect Bernard R. Maybeck in 1909. Read more

Most Viewed Content on AIACC.org

Residential Awards Recipients
Social Etiquette: Invited or Imposed?
Online CE
Project Leads

CONCRETE MASONRY IS FLEXIBLE & ATTRACTION SAFE GREEN AFFORDABLE WHYMASONRY.ORG